CONSTRUCTION IS UNDERWAY!

We are excited to announce the long-awaited, much anticipated commencement of construction of our new two story classroom building. The new building replaces the old facility that was destroyed in Hurricane Wilma. The building is expected to be completed in the summer/fall of 2013 and will be accompanied by major improvements and upgrades to the overall TEAM campus. Parents will be informed as the different phases of construction are reached, and of other noteworthy developments. For now, be extra careful at carpool time, as some spaces to the south of our Girls/ECE building are already off limits.

SPOTLIGHT ON .....3G

In conjunction with our unit on Tefila, 3G has been busy earning pieces for, and putting together, a puzzle depicting the Kosel. When the puzzle is complete, it will be the focal point of our new Tefila bulletin board. We also tried our hand at learning Chavrusa style! It is certainly an activity that we look forward to repeating!

For $18 you may honor your child's birthday with a book. A bookplate with the student's name is placed on the inside of the cover; the student takes the book home for a week before it becomes a part of the library; the student's picture appears in the TEAM Spirit. Thank you to all who are participating in this effort to increase the volumes of our library.

Dear Parents,

The long awaited beginning of construction of our new two story, 19-room classroom building is upon us, B'H. Within the next week, major equipment, major changes, and major noise will move onto the Toras Emes campus, IY'H. Even with the inevitable delays inherent in construction, we are fully confident that the building will be completed in less time than it took Noach to complete the Tayva! Seriously, we are looking forward to a speedy project, that will have our students in their new quarters by the beginning or middle of the 2013-14 school year, BE'H.

While the construction process is a challenging one, it should remind us of the most important construction job that exists – constructing our children into adults who will be productive, Torah-observant contributing members of society. Children should wear a sign – “caution, construction zone” for they are truly a work in progress. And just as a construction site features noise, dust and rubble, children produce plenty of that as well. There is anger, tears and arguments. We need to keep in mind that the rubble is a by-product of growth and refinement, noise results from sharpening their tools, and the dust will dissipate and disappear.

Construction is a long, involved process. The workers focus on the day's goal, ignoring the noise and rubble around them. A wise parent also focuses on the day's goal, and while sympathetic to the tears and strong emotions, doesn't get dissuaded or discouraged by them. Recognizing that constructing a child is a long, involved process will allow a parent to not get too overwrought by any one issue. By focusing on the ultimate goal, the parent will be able to align his decisions and actions to the child's best interests.

- continued from previous page -

Buildings come with blueprints – children do not. We cannot know the end product of the child we are constructing, but we do have an overarching blueprint that guides all our actions – the Torah. The greatest contribution we can make to the construction of our children is to live a life true to the values, laws and outlook of the Torah. It won't be up to us to complete the construction project – but our children will follow the model we have set for them, in the way we conduct our own lives.

Bear with us as we build with brick and mortar, and work with us as together we build the greatest edifice of all – the Neshamos of our children.

May your Shabbos rise higher and higher,
